REPORT

The Department of Artificial Intelligence and Data Science conducted an External Seminar for II-year and III-year AI&DS students on 22nd September 2025 from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00p.m. The program, titled “The Future of Data Science with AI and Automation”, focused on the challenges it presents and the opportunities it unlocks across industries.

Ms. E. Bhavadharani, B.E., M.B.A Senior Technical trainer, served as the Resource Person for the event. She highlighted the importance of Artificial Intelligence and Data Science in the field of research and delivered an insightful session. The presentation was well-structured, enabling students to understand various research methodologies and techniques, while encouraging them to adopt a systematic approach to their academic projects and future research endeavors.

The seminar was highly interactive, with active student participation throughout the session. It received positive feedback from the attendees. The content provided a comprehensive overview of the significant role of Data Science with AI and Automation, effectively addressing both opportunities and challenges in the field.
